By HAROLD K. MILKS

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—The bereaved gathered their dead for mass burials in flood-ravaged Barcelona Province today as the death toll mounted in Spain's worst natural disaster of modern times.

An official casualty list issued by provincial authorities said 341 persons died in Wednesday's rain-triggered floods, 546 were injured and 464 were still missing. More than 1,500 were without homes.

The raging waters destroyed at least 25 factories and partly wrecked 50 others, leaving damage estimated at upwards of $80 million.

About 60,000 were left jobless by the floods, which laid waste a thickly populated industrial complex covering 150 square miles north and west of Barcelona, chief port of Spain.

Fed by a nine-hour rain and driven by hurricane force winds, the racing waters quickly filled up river beds dry from a long drought, then swept far beyond the banks. They crumpled mills and bore off cottages. Many persons died in their sleep as the floods leveled their homes. Others perished at work as factories collapsed.

Tarrasa, an industrial community of 120,000 about 10 miles northwest of Barcelona, bore the brunt of the floods.

Residents had just wound up a week-long celebration of the festival of Our Lady of Mercy and gone to bed when the storm struck. Some were crushed in their beds as walls collapsed and ceilings crashed down.

At one textile mill 78 night workers died at their machines as the flood waters knocked down the plant.

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—Flash floods created by drought-breaking rainstorms ripped devastatingly through industrial centers of the Barcelona area early Wednesday and the civil governor's office said at least 24 persons were killed.

Nearly 400 persons were listed as missing, raising the possibility that the ultimate death toll might prove this to be the worst natural disaster in the modern history of Spain.

The injured totaled at least 1,000.

The destruction centered in an area of roughly 150 square miles fanning north and west of Barcelona, a Mediterranean port of two million that is Spain's chief industrial and commercial city.

Officials here forecast the death toll would exceed that of a flood disaster of 1959, when waters from a collapsing dam engulfed the sleeping village of Rivedelago, in central Spain, and killed more than 300 of its 500 people.

Barcelona itself escaped major damage but some areas were without bread as sewers halted operations in most of the city's bakeries. Damage to bridges forced rerouting of trains from France and various regions of Spain.

Hardest hit were the cities of Tarrasa, Sabadell and Rubi, where the bulk of Spain's growing textile industry is located. They are in a hilly region from 10 to 15 miles northwest of Barcelona.

Flood waters pushed along by hurricane-force winds crumpled the dried mud houses. Many persons died in their sleep as their homes melted under the combined force of wind and water. Others died at work as swirling waters undermined their buildings.

Workers' homes in that region are mostly made of adobe. "They melted like butter," one official said.

Cities, towns and villages compiled casualty lists.

Officials of Tarrasa reported 91 known dead and 51 missing from one section alone.

There were 30 dead in Sabadell, another textile center; and 44 dead and 300 missing in Rubi.

Nations Urged to Ask Russia to End Tension

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Britain today urged all members of the United Nations to make it unmistakably clear they want the Soviet Union to end the tension surrounding the Berlin wall and negotiate a settlement of the Berlin problem.

In a policy speech before the 108-nation General Assembly, Foreign Secretary Lord Home spoke out strongly against Communist Communist policy on Berlin and elsewhere. But he appealed for "a more active use of the process of conciliation everywhere."

"The first and most dangerous cause of conflict," he said, "is the Communist effort to impose their system on the rest of the world by that type of political warfare, backed by force, they call peaceful coexistence."

In keeping with the British position that Cuba is primarily a U.S. problem, Home made only one brief reference to Cuba. He simply quoted a question asked last week by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko as to whether U.S. Cuban policy meant that a stronger country had the right to gobble up a weaker country.

"Well, he ought to know," the British foreign secretary commented. "But if he doesn't he might ask the Chinese."

In the Assembly Wednesday, Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake of New Zealand said that in the Soviet-U.S. dispute over Cuba, "Peace depends on the two superpowers showing almost superhuman responsibility and restraint."

He expressed alarm at "large-scale introduction of armaments and technicians by the Soviet Union into Cuba," saying, "This act by the Soviet Union shows a lack of restraint and a lack of responsibility."

Walker Calls for Massive Resistance

DALLAS (AP)—Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who commanded the troops that forcibly integrated Little Rock's Central High School in 1957, called today for massive physical resistance if soldiers are sent to Mississippi to enforce federal court integration orders.

"Now is the time to be heard: 10,000 strong from every state in the Union," declared the former Army officer who resigned his command after being reprimanded over a troop indoctrination program in Germany.

Walker noted that he commanded soldiers in Little Rock, Ark., during the 1957 and 1958 school integration crisis, and added:

"The last time I was on the wrong side. This time I am on the right side and I will be there."

A volunteer force should go to Mississippi "when and if the President of the United States commits or uses any troops, federal or state, in Mississippi," said Walker, who has identified himself as a staunch supporter of right-wing views.

Walker was asked if he was suggesting carry arms.

"The administration has indicated it will do whatever is necessary to enforce this unconstitutional action," he replied after a pause. "I have stated that whatever is necessary to oppose that enforcement and stand behind Gov. Ross Barnett should be done."

Asks Hike in Seed Shipments

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An application for a $5 a car increase for soybean and cotton seed shipments within Arkansas was withdrawn today by the Southwestern Freight Bureau of Dallas.

The bureau, which represents all major operating railroads, had asked for the increase to become effective Oct. 10. A hearing before the Arkansas Commerce Commission had been set for Oct. 16, but this was canceled after the withdrawal.

Processing Association and eight other parties had protested the proposed increase.

The rain let up and the crowd picked up last night, the third of the Third District Livestock Show which will continue through Saturday night. An estimated 2,600 paid admissions were registered.

Things will really get to humming this afternoon with a big Rodeo Parade at 4 p.m. This signifies the start of the western half of the show and the opening night of the rodeo.

Crenshaw Rodeo Co. of Oklahoma one of the better ones, promises a good show each night in the Coliseum. They have plenty of wild stock and plenty of riders. One feature of the Rodeo, each night will be the Appaloosa Horse stake races. They will be competing for some $800 in prize money and will be graded on a point basis.

The Junior Swine Show got underway this morning and the Junior Fall Calf Show is underway with the annual auction scheduled for 6 p.m. There will be plenty of horses and other features in the parade.

Friday will be one of the biggest days at the show. It has been designated school day and all students throughout the district will be admitted free to the showgrounds. And Almo Exposition Shows will charge only half price to students on the Midway which includes sideshows and some 17 rides.

Meanwhile judging of livestock continues during the day. The Sears Poultry Pullet sale will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday and the rodeo will be held in the Coliseum on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Democrats Urge Poll Tax Purchases

Today the chairman of the Hempstead County Democratic Campaign Committee, Vincent W. Foster, stated that all citizens should be informed that Monday, Oct. 1 is the last day poll taxes may be obtained to be eligible to vote in the general election Nov. 6. He urges all good Democrats to make sure they have a poll tax.

Mr. Foster also announced that small golden Democratic donkey emblems and Democratic bumper strips are now available. He urged Democrats to make sure they have a poll tax, secure a donkey emblem for their lapel and a bumper strip for their autos.

In conclusion Mr. Foster said that the emblems and bumper strips may be secured from Tom Hays at The First National Bank or from any of the following divisional chairmen:

Mrs. Ida Stuart, Democratic Women's Committee, who has been appointed by Dick Turnage; John L. Wilson and George W. Peck, Business and Professional; Jim Cole and Carter Sutton, Senior Citizens; Dick Turnage, Women; Tom Hays and Royce Weisenberger, Schools; Talbot Field Jr., and Harry Hawthorne, Rural; Judge Orie O. Byers, Federal, State, County and City Employees; Jimmy Griffin, Ray Turner, W. S. Atkins, James H. Pilkinton and Royce Weisenberger.

Would End Mobile Phone Business

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Public Service Commission ordered Ralph Hicks today to show cause why he shouldn't cease his mobile telephone business in Fort Smith.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. asked for the order, contending Hicks had not received permission from the PSC and had no contract with Southwestern Bell.

Hicks, doing business as Mobilphone of Fort Smith, applied for authority to operate the concern earlier this year, but failed to appear for a scheduled hearing on the request.

The PSC ordered him to appear Oct. 9 and show cause why he shouldn't go through normal channels for the authority or cease operation.

Narcotics Bill to Be Signed by President

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today there is need for "much more comprehensive action by us all" to cope with the abuse of narcotics.

Departing somewhat from his prepared text at the first White House conference on narcotics and drug abuse, the President said there "is no area where there is so much of a mystery ... misunderstanding ... and difference of opinion" as in the field of narcotic addiction.

For example, he said, various government agencies have different statistics on the problem.

Kennedy also said there is a "need for clear and uniform" opinion as to proper medical treatment of addicts.

White House conferences like the present one, Kennedy continued, could be either just "window dressing" or could serve an important purpose. And he voiced confidence that the current conference can prove more useful than any other White House conference in history.

The aim, he said, is "pooling of our information and experiences to the end that an orderly, vigorous and direct attack can be undertaken on all levels: local, state, federal and international."

The federal government itself wants guidance from the assembled experts.

The President opened his remarks to several hundred scientists, law enforcement officers, social workers, legislators and other federal state and local officials by saying:

"For more than half a century this nation has faced persistent and vexatious problems arising out of the abuse of narcotic and non-narcotic drugs."

"It is especially tragic and upsetting that this great loss to our society in the form of human suffering and misery and lost productivity flows directly from agents which possess the capacity to relieve pain and suffering."

"Properly and expertly used, the drugs contribute significantly to the improvement and betterment of our lives, a fact to which millions of us can give personal testimony. Improperly used, their fruits can be degradation, incapacitation, and crime."

Among the conference's main objectives are:

1. An accurate appraisal of the magnitude and nature of the problem of drug addiction. There are more than 40,000 known addicts, but some experts believe there may be many more still undetected.

2. An examination of the role of law enforcement activities in controlling the supply of illicit drugs and in apprehending those engaged in the sale and distribution of such drugs.

3. A study of existing programs for the treatment and rehabilitation of addicts.

Postal Bill Red Amendment Is Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, moving slowly on a big federal pay raise postal rates bill, defeated 51-23 today an attempt to put in a different provision on handling of Communist propaganda entering the U.S. mails from abroad.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., offered it as a substitute for a Communist mail-handling provision in the bill which he denounced as a "monstrosity."

The bill would raise postal rates $603 million a year, including a penny hike on letters and air mail, and would give 1,500,000 U.S. employees a billion-dollar pay boost in two steps.

Clark's amendment would have authorized the postmaster general to alert the public generally, and persons to whom mail was addressed, when "large quantities of Communist propaganda and obscene, lewd, lascivious and indecent matter are being introduced" into the U.S. mails.

The amendment would have authorized the Post Office Department to seize and dispose of such matter but only at the request of persons to whom it was addressed.

The Senate also defeated 48-33 a proposal by Clark to give the President discretionary authority as to the interception of Communist mail.

4 State Projects in Flood Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four Arkansas projects totaling $4,686,000 will be considered today when the House Public Works Committee takes up a $2.2 flood control and navigation appropriations bill.

Subcommittees approved various projects in the bill Wednesday amid Republican cries of "pork barreling."

The Arkansas projects, and amounts allocated by the bill are: Modification of Dardanelle Lock and Dam to include a sewer disposal project at Russellville, $1.4 million.

Modification of the plan for the Village Creek, White River and Mayberry Levee Districts to include a pumping plant, $1,018,000. The Village Creek project itself, in Jackson and Lawrence counties, $1,068,000.

Construction of two experimental water quality study projects in the Arkansas and Red basins, $300,000.

Fulbright to Talk on Exports

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., will speak on exports and their effects on the Arkansas feed and poultry industry tonight at the Arkansas Formula Feed Conference.

The conference, sponsored by the Arkansas Feed Manufacturers' Association and the University of Arkansas, opened Wednesday. It emphasizes nutrition for poultry, swine, beef and dairy cattle.

Governors to Have a Big Problem

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—The Southern Governors' Conference, opening next Sunday at Hollywood, took on political hotpot possibilities today after Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett reconfirmed that he plans to be present.

Barnett, who made world news by barring a Negro from the University of Mississippi, is scheduled to be a discussion leader on "The South and the Space Age" Tuesday.

But Barnett's actions to maintain segregation in his home state may be discussed by the National Governors' Conference executive board meeting at the same time and place as the Southern governors.

Gov. John Swainson of Michigan suggested Wednesday to national conference chairman Albert Rosellini of Washington that the national group censure Barnett.

Whether the executive board would take unprecedented action toward censuring a fellow governor was not known.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas has said he will attend the conference.

Florida Gov. Farris Bryant, host to the Southern conference session, declined comment at Tallahassee on the Swainson proposal.

Bryant said last Thursday in response to questions at a news conference that he was convinced Barnett was doing what he thought best for Mississippi in resisting integration of the University of Mississippi.

"He (Barnett) has my admiration," Bryant said. "He is a man of courage and he feels he is doing the best for what he feels is the best interests of Mississippi. I know he is motivated by deep personal convictions."

Defiant Mississippi Officers Armed With Helmets, Gas Masks

Farm Bill Signed by President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed new farm legislation into law today and called it an important stride toward increasing farm income while reducing costs to the government.

"I am confident this act will help us sustain prosperity, reduce burdens of surpluses, and maintain stable food prices," Kennedy said as he signed the 1962 Agriculture Act.

The measure is by no means all that Kennedy originally asked, but it carries the seeds of possible victory for tight production controls next year.

The bill continues for one year the present emergency wheat and feed grain programs, with the difference that both include an 18-cent direct payment as part of the price support farmers can get.

For instance, corn would be supported at $1.20 a bushel, but 18 cents of that would be paid in kind from government surplus corn stocks. The farmers could get the actual grain or the equivalent in cash. Wheat comes under a similar payment in kind plan.

More important from the administration point of view are the provisions that come into effect in 1964 if Congress fails to enact new farm legislation before then.

Had this bill not been passed, the law would have reverted in that case to the 1958 program of former Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, which provided relatively high price supports with little or no production controls. Democrats blame the Benson program for the present mountain of surpluses.

Now the 1958 law has been repealed. If Congress fails to act next year, this present law provides that in 1964 the secretary of agriculture can set price supports for corn at 50 per cent of parity. He is to choose a figure that will not result in an increase of surplus stocks held by the government.

They said these men, called members of the MRRC, were shot Sept. 19 or 20; Tomas Ruiz Santana, Evelio Hernandez Horta, Jesus Lazo Otano, Otto Rodriguez Dias, Felix Nicerany Reyes and Guillermo Reyes Ziada.

Havana Radio said Wednesday night that Cuban security officers recently arrested five men in suburban Havana. They were accused of trying to unify all anti-Castro elements in Cuba. The broadcast said arms also were seized.

Welfare Dept. to Make Spot Checks

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Social Welfare Commissioner A. J. Moss said today the state Welfare Department will begin a spot check of grants made to parents and guardians of dependent children to determine if the program is being abused.

Moss said the check probably would begin next month.

State welfare representatives and welfare officials in Washington decided on the plan at a meeting which ended Wednesday in Washington. It will include all states which have aid to dependent children programs. Only one state has no such program.

Moss said Arkansas has 6,271 cases involving about 20,000 children. About 300 cases will be checked on a random basis in Arkansas. He said he doubted that the check would turn up a single case of ineligibility.

The check is expected to be completed in about two months. A report on the results is to be in the hands of federal officials in February.

Plotters in Cuba Are Executed

By GEORGE ARFELD

HAVANA (AP)—About 300 persons have been rounded up and 75 shot in a purported plot to assassinate Prime Minister Fidel Castro and clear the way for an invasion, informed sources said today.

The informants said two counterrevolutionary groups were accused of plotting disorders in late August as a prelude to invasion and the overthrow of Castro's regime. Castro and other government figures were said to have been marked for death.

The two groups were identified as the anti-Communist Liberation Front known as the FAL and the Movement for the Recovery of the Cuban Revolution called the MRRC. The regime accused both of working closely with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The sources said those executed went before firing squads last week at La Cabana Fortress across the entrance to Havana Bay. Twenty-seven others were sentenced to from 25 to 30 years in prison. All were tried by a revolutionary tribunal.

The sources gave this account of the charges:

The FAL's uprising, set for late August, would begin with sabotage of the big Havana Light and Power station near the docks. It would spread to all provinces, with landings in eastern Cuba.

The MRRC, which included many active and retired police officials, would attempt assassinations of Castro and other leaders. It also would try to capture police stations near the presidential palace in Havana and at Santiago de Las Vegas, near the International Airport.

Informants identified six FAL members: Francisco Perez Menendez, Ventura Suarez Diaz, Sergio Valdez Sanchez, Pedro Sillio Matos, Bernaba Corominas Portuondo and Cru Alvarez Bernao.

They said these men, called members of the MRRC, were shot Sept. 19 or 20; Tomas Ruiz Santana, Evelio Hernandez Horta, Jesus Lazo Otano, Otto Rodriguez Dias, Felix Nicerany Reyes and Guillermo Reyes Ziada.

Sheriffs, City Officers Flock to Campus

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi officers guarding the gates of the University of Mississippi against Negro James H. Meredith were issued helmets and gas today.

The officers tried on the gas masks, then left them out of their bags, wearing them over their shoulders.

They wore steel helmet liners and carried billy clubs.

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—An army of sheriffs and city policemen converged on the University of Mississippi campus today to join the guard against Negro James H. Meredith.

State police at the five gates to the campus carried gas masks and billy clubs and wore steel helmet liners.

More than 100 police cars stood parked around the gates — highway patrol cars, sheriff's cars and city police cars from the length and breadth of the state — and more were arriving.

The reinforced barrier of manpower against the 29-year-old Negro numbered an estimated 400. Only the campus police carried guns.

As they did Wednesday when they turned back Meredith and a cordon of federal marshals at the gates, the state officers wore no sidearms.

County and city officers arriving during the morning stepped out of their cars, then unstrapped their guns and put them in their cars.

Six police dogs remained in police cars about 200 yards inside the main gate.

Newsman on the scene identified officers from such widely separated places as Harrison County on the Gulf Coast to the south and from Tupelo in extreme northeast Mississippi.

As classes opened for the day on the hilly, wooded campus, the students went about their business as normal. Newsman spotted students going to classes, but saw none around the guard posts at the gates.

There were no indications that Meredith planned another attempt to enroll today.

His attorneys said he was in Memphis Wednesday night and would be in New Orleans today for a news conference.

Gov. Ross Barnett—twice openly defiant of federal court orders in personally rejecting Meredith's attempts to enroll—was on the campus, arriving by car about 8 a.m.

As they did Wednesday when they turned back Meredith and a cordon of federal marshals, the officers wore no sidearms.

No gas guns or gas bombs were in evidence.

marshals arrived in Memphis. Johnson told the marshals his position was the same as Gov. Ross Barnett's. He said he prohibited Memphis from having a federal marshal in the city.

It didn't take long for the marshals to get into the city. In Washington, Sen. J. Edgar Hoover said the marshals' actions were a "disgrace to the federal government."

U.S. Army Gen. Robert F. Egan said the marshals' actions were "a disgrace to the federal government."

The question of federal troops is as it has been, Kennedy said. "That is, we'll use whatever is necessary to do the job."

The acid test may come Friday. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ordered Barnett to appear in New Orleans to face a contempt hearing.

It was this court that forced the State College Board to agree Monday to enroll Meredith.

A similar hearing is set for U.S. Gov. Johnson on Saturday before the same tribunal.

The key question: Will Barnett appear in court? And if he doesn't, will the government arrest him?

Barnett has twice ignored federal court injunctions — once by turning Meredith back at Ole Miss; once by stopping him from entering the State College Board office in Jackson and appearing before President Robert E. Kennedy. He said he would not accept a federal marshal in the city of Memphis, although the marshals are only a "copy" and not the "real" service of the order.

There was no announcement of what the marshals' reaction would be if Barnett didn't show up. It has the power to issue a bench warrant for his appearance.

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Earl Warren, Mississippi's highest court judge, said he would not accept a federal marshal in the city of Memphis, although the marshals are only a "copy" and not the "real" service of the order.

A federal judge of unnamed federal judges turned back Meredith and his car at the gates of the all-white school at mid-morning.

Four times John Doe, U.S. Justice Department attorney, tried to get past the line of Mississippi officers. Four times U.S. Marshal Paul Johnson refused.

"We want to take him in," said Doe the fourth time.

"I heard you," said Johnson. A few marshals tried to walk through the line of Mississippi officers.

The first physical contact between state and federal government in the historic campaign to desegregate Ole Miss.

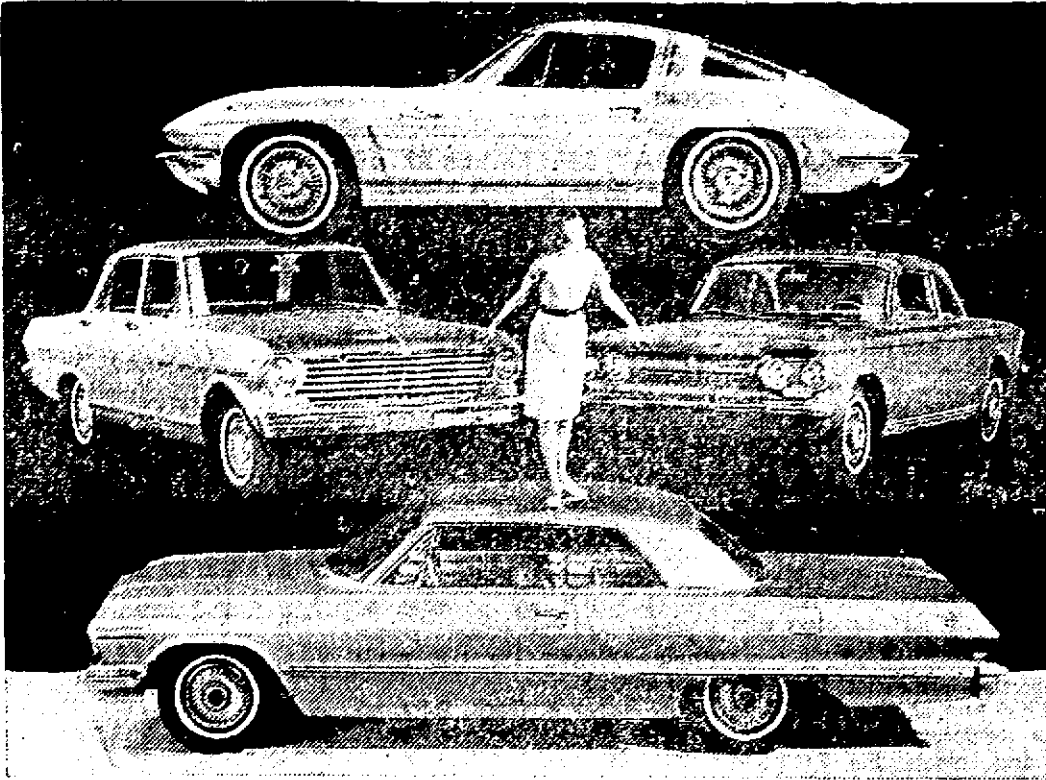

The scuffle ended as abruptly as it began.

Johnson turned his head toward Chief Marshal James McShane. "You are senseless in trying to show off in front of television cameras for the rest of the nation to see," the Mississippi official said.

"I'm not showing off," replied McShane. "But doing my job as ordered."

The federal officers turned away with a solemn-faced Meredith, looking all of his 29 years.

in their midst. At the airport Meredith boarded the government plane that flew him from New Orleans. "Well," he shrugged, "at least I'm getting a lot of flying time." The plane took off, reportedly for New Orleans. About this time Gov. Ross Barnett — the adamant chief executive who twice before in face-to-face meetings turned down Meredith and his battery of lawyers — drove rapidly north toward Oxford. He was 20 miles to the south. Bad weather had kept him from flying from Jackson. Barnett went into seclusion at Alumni House on the Ole Miss campus, the same place he first denied Meredith enrollment last week. Back in Jackson, everyone — even delivery boys — was being turned away from Barnett's office. One source said this move was designed to prevent service of legal papers in the governor's absence. In New Orleans an air of expectancy kept workers in the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals looking up frequently. It appeared likely the federal government would ask for a citation of contempt against Barnett, perhaps an order specifically aimed at Johnson, a newcomer to the grave struggle. Rumors which could not be confirmed kept popping up that U.S. troops were moving into the strug-

Petition Recheck in Garland Asked

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Garland County Judge Henry Murphy has asked the county Election Commission to recheck petitions filed by Lon Warneke, his potential opponent in the November election.

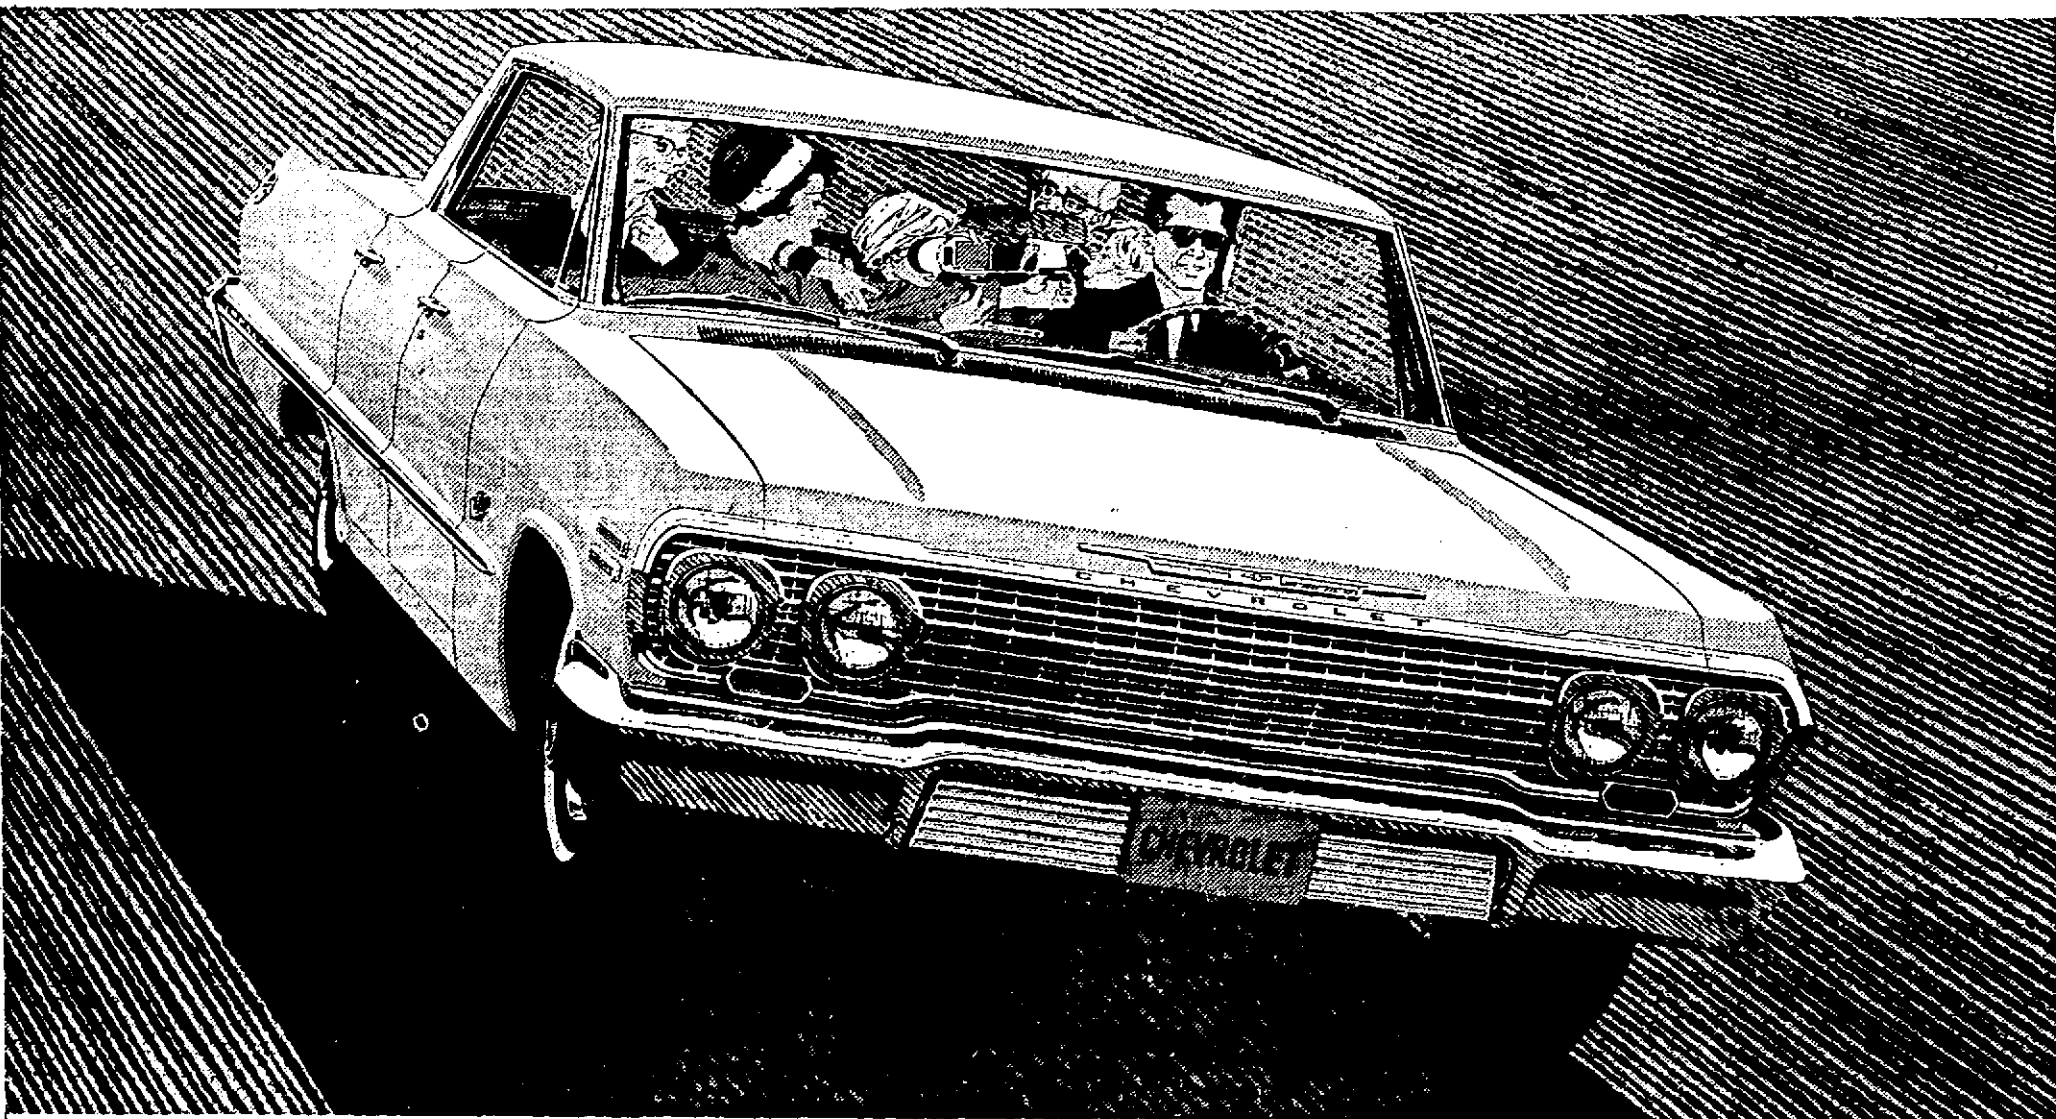

Warneke, a former major league baseball pitcher and umpire, filed petitions bearing 2,575 names with the commission in an attempt to get his name on the Nov. 6 general election ballot as an independent.

Commission Chairman R. Julian Glover said a count of the signatures was halted at 2,157 — the number required for Warneke to qualify.

He said Murphy was given permission to check the signatures and challenged some. The commission allowed a number of the challenges and the petition was found 58 names short. The remainder of the signatures now are being checked.

In the event the petitions are found insufficient in the second count, Warneke would have to challenge the commission ruling in Chancery Court to get his name on the ballot.

Is Hers a Losing Battle?

By HELEN GORDEN ERSKINE
Dear Helen: I've been fighting for five years now to keep our marriage going. I've never loved my husband but I thought I might learn. It's getting tougher by the minute.

He's rough in his talk — shouting and yelling constantly. I don't know what his normal speaking voice sounds like any more.

He spansks the children pretty hard, says he does this for their own good, in truth they don't seem afraid of him, I guess they realize, even though small, that he really loves them, and in his own way I think he does.

Should I keep trying to make a go of this marriage? I admit I'm easily influenced but I haven't a friend or relative that likes my husband. If I left him, I have nowhere to go and no money either, but it seems to me that somewhere there must be someone I could truly love and cherish.

Perhaps I'm over-romantic. I like to write poetry and song lyrics. Is there a market for these? Here is the first stanza of a poem I wrote in school:

To me you are the sweetest thing
That ever appeared on earth,
Whenever I hear your tender voice
I know how much you're worth.
Do you think there is an answer for me? —Curly

Dear Curly: There's an important clue to your difficulty with your husband is the poem you wrote as a schoolgirl.

Whether the "you" to whom you addressed your verse was a real person or only a dream prince, it's significant that you stressed his "tender" voice. Now you find yourself married to a man who shouts, yells, and talks rough.

This is just the opposite of the ideal you had as a dreamy, sensitive youngster who wrote poetry. You're still writing poetry and still sensitive, but it's time you adjusted your dreams to reality. You need to apply some mature understanding to your husband's personality without relying on the opinion of relatives and friends. You and he are different in temperament, but opposites attract and frequently blend. The tone of a person's voice is no gauge of his character. Take a lesson from your children. If, as you admit they see beneath his surface, you can do the same. And if his voice grates on you, try this trick: always speak to him in sweet, low tones. Often this will make the other person lower his own. The Bible says a soft answer turneth away wrath; it can also turn away harshness and bellowing.

By all means continue writing poetry and lyrics. Check at your local library for magazines which print poetry and submit some samples to them. Your librarian can guide you to information about music companies which buy lyrics. Even if you don't sell a line, these pursuits will provide you with a pleasant outlet from everyday problems.

Dear Helen: A widowed friend of mind is playing with fire. She was devoted to her husband and since he was not the type to be on the go they stayed home. They had no children. Now she is alone, except for her family who live out of town, and she has her own business which keeps her busy till late at night.

Along comes a possessive, conceited man who takes her to nightclubs and other places she's never been, shows her a good time, and generally acts as her knight in armor.

He's a heavy drinker, was divorced by his first wife because of a woman and is in process of getting divorced by his second.

Now he's even two-timing my friend. She won't believe it. I'd like to tell her but her head is in the clouds. In no time he'll be on his way again. This will break her heart. —Concerned

Dear Concerned: The sharp eyes you've kept on your friend's doings strike me as also a little bit green. Jealousy between even close women friends is not unusual, especially when one of them suddenly turns from a quiet wallflower into a social butterfly. This widow is an adult. It's up to her to discover for herself any failings her beau may have. Unless and until she seeks your advice don't volunteer your forebodings. They may fall far short of the worst.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Ambition."

Citations for Arkansas Papers
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Arkansas Democrat was one of 4 member newspapers, radio and television stations cited Wednesday by The Associated Press Managing Editors Association for exceptional contributions to the AP news report.

The Democrat award was for consistently excellent cooperation in providing newsphotos, both spot and feature, often before it processes the pictures for its own use.

Its contributions for the year independent. —Teen-ager

Dear Teen-ager: Because your parents hold the purse-strings, it will be hard to argue them into an allowance they don't think you should have, however unfair that may seem.

If you want the money badly enough there are more ways than mowing lawns for a 17-year-old to earn it. Why not clerk in the local grocery, run errands for storekeepers, or baby-sit? A journey of a thousand miles begins with but a single step, and if independence is your goal, even small after-school jobs will start you on the road to it.

If a 17-year-old senior can't have his own money to spend as he thinks best why let him grow up? I have no money except what I earn mowing a lawn. Parents like mine figure if this teenager needs it, he'll ask them. In a few years I plan to be completely independent.

Airport Bids
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Little Rock Airport Commission will open bids Oct. 3 on the major portion of $500,000 worth of improvements at Adams Field. The largest item is construction of a new taxiway to enable the airport to handle larger jet aircraft.

Rain Abandonment
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission was asked Tuesday to permit abandonment of 27 miles of Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks between Felsenthal, Ark., and Bastrop, La. Missouri Pacific said it had another track linking the two cities by way of Monroe, La., and this line could handle all Felsenthal-Bastrop freight.

Completely re-styled for 1963 Ford's top-of-the-line Galaxie 500-XL convertible, shown above, offers luxury car features, such as bucket seats and console, a 260-cubic-inch Challenger V-8 engine, custom-designed interior appointments, and a console-mounted transmission lever. A padded, color-keyed boot covers the convertible top when it is lowered into the storage well, and special 500/XL emblems are mounted on the front fenders immediately behind the wheel openings. Through improved lubricants and special production procedures, Ford has been able to eliminate the historic 1,000-mile inspection on all of its 1963 Galaxies.

The 500-XL convertible is one of 14 Galaxie hardtop, convertible, station wagon and sedan models scheduled to go on display in dealers showrooms on Friday, September 28.

Ford's pace-setting Fairlane sedan series has been expanded to a complete line of hardtops, station wagons and sporty sedans for 1963. The five new models added to the line include two rakish new hardtops and three new family fun station wagons. The 1963 Fairlane incorporates many new engineering features, highlighted by elimination of the 1,000-mile inspection. Included in the service-saving items are: 10-mile oil change and minor lube intervals, 36,000-mile major chassis lubrication and long-life self-adjusting brakes.

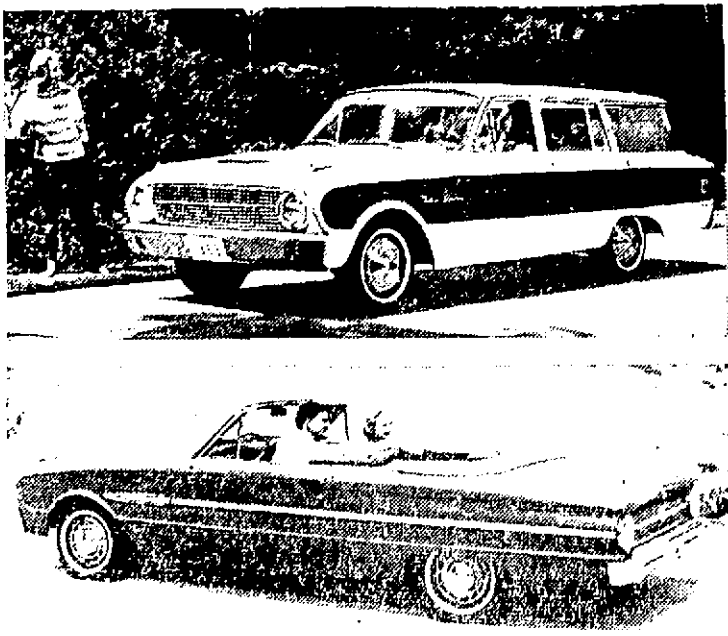

All nine Fairlane hardtops, station wagons and sedans will be introduced in dealer showrooms on Friday, September 28.

Two completely new hardtops and three new station wagons have been added to Ford's Fairlane series for 1963. This Fairlane 500 sports coupe with its Thunderbird styled roofline, features a full-length console separating luxury-styled bucket seats, and a color-keyed interior.

Engineering advancements and modern production techniques have eliminated the need for a 1,000-mile inspection, and increased major chassis lubrication intervals to 36,000 miles, with minor lubrication intervals of 6,000 miles. These are only two of the many service-saving items designed into all Ford Division cars except club wagons and buses for 1963.

Fairlane hardtops, station wagons, and sporty sedans will go on display in dealer showrooms on Friday, September 28.

Low-slung and spirited, Ford's all-new compact Falcon Futura convertible (below) leads off Detroit's 1963 parade of new car models. Designed with a sports car flair, the car offers luxury car interior appointments, an electrically operated power top and a complete range of performance options. Wire wheel covers, bucket seats and a floor mounted, 4-speed transmission are a few of the many options available.

These two models, along with Falcon's full line of 17 models, will be introduced in dealer showrooms Friday, September 28.

Dave Beck to Stand Trial in New York

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Dave Beck Sr., former Teamsters Union president, started for New York City for trial on charges of violating the Taft-Hartley Act, but his trek was tripped up Wednesday.

He apparently was feeling fit when he left McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary near Tacoma, but by the time he was limping in county jail here he was limping. Beck said he sprained an ankle when he slipped on stairs at the prison.

As he left McNeil, where he has served three months of a five-year sentence for tax fraud, the 62-year-old Beck said he never felt better. "I'm getting lots of exercise and a little bit of rest," he said.

At Seattle, a physician placed him in the jail hospital for the night. The doctor said Beck could be moved any time officials wished.

Beck is to appear Monday in U.S. District Court in New York. The government contends he received an illegal payment of $200,000 from two trucking company officials and three corporations while he was a representative of their employees, in violation of a 1959 amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act.

Beck was in the Civil War camp, in 1960, when he joined the Confederated three months of a five-year sentence for tax fraud.

Picking the State College Winners

By BILL SIMMONS Associated Press Staff Writer

The University of Arkansas and the University of Tulsa collide in Fayetteville this Saturday, and, barring weather reminiscent of the 1961 game, a lot of points should be scored.

Last week Arkansas drummed Oklahoma State University 34-7 and barely worked up a sweat.

Two weeks ago the Golden Hurricane walloped hapless Hardin-Simmons 30-0, the 23rd straight defeat for the team that will test Arkansas later in the season.

Both the Razorbacks and Tulsa showed only one thing—an ability to pass and thereby whip a lesser foe.

Ironically, perhaps, coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas and Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa claim one of the biggest problems was caused by the cold, rainy weather at the beginning of fall practice.

Broyles and Dobbs said their players need to shed weight and needed the benefit of hot weather workouts early this fall.

Barrins a rainstorm like the one which drenched the 1961 Arkansas-Tulsa game, this one could be a horse race.

Arkansas, in our opinion, has more horses. We take the Razorbacks, 24-20.

After Arkansas State's upset of the nation's No. 2 small college team, South Dakota State, last week, we go with the Indians over Florence State at Florence, Ala., this week.

Now, swinging through the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference, Arkansas Tech 20, Arkansas A&M 14. The Wonder Boys have earned their name, and they are shooting for a third straight title.

Harding College 14, Southern State 6. The Bisons didn't let Tech off easy last week.

Ouchita College 20, Arkansas State Teachers 14. The Baptists pulled one out of the hat in fine fashion last week, and the Bears apparently are just beginning to hibernate.

Henderson 19, Ozarks 0. A new streak for the Mountaineers to work with.

Losina Fight at Old Miss, Tucker Says

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Everett Tucker, president of the Little Rock School Board, predicted Wednesday the Mississippi integration crisis will end with the University of Mississippi either integrated or closed.

Tucker said Mississippi now faces the same choices Little Rock had during its integration struggle in 1957-59.

"We tried both courses (closed school and integration) here," Tucker said, "and I believe the community prefers the plan of desegregation we have adopted over the no-schools approach."

Tucker was elected to the board in December 1958, when the regular board resigned after Gov. Orval E. Faubus closed Little Rock High Schools against integration. This year about 76 Negroes attend eight schools with whites.

"The controversy has abated to the point where Little Rock has begun to achieve tangible results in its industrial development program," said Tucker, who is executive director of the Industrial Development Co., a private firm.

He said Little Rock did not get a new industry between 1957, when the racial crisis broke out, and 1961.

Tucker compared Mississippi's crisis, in which Gov. Ross Barnett is using state power to block enrollment of Negro James Meredith in the University of Mississippi, to Arkansas' situation in 1957.

"We hope our school integration problems are behind us and we sympathize with our Mississippi friends in their attempts to solve theirs," he said.

The Little Rock crisis erupted when Gov. Orval E. Faubus ordered National Guard troops to keep nine Negroes out of Central High School. Faubus withdrew the Guard, however, on orders from a federal judge.

Later, Faubus closed the schools, but he made no effort to keep them closed when federal courts threw out the laws which gave him school closing power.

In contrast, Barnett has taken a personal role in the Mississippi crisis, meeting Meredith face to face on two occasions to deny him admittance to the university.

For his efforts, Barnett has been ordered to appear before a federal tribunal in New Orleans today to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt.

Faubus said at one time during the Little Rock trouble that federal officials planned to arrest him and he went into seclusion.

Dodgers Win, Magic Number Is Now Three

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The front-running Los Angeles Dodgers reduced their magic number to three Wednesday night with a 7-3 attack that overwhelmed Houston 13-1 and left the second-place San Francisco Giants two games behind with four games to play.

The Giants lost 6-3 with a 6-3 triumph over St. Louis as Tom Haller drove in four runs with a homer and double and Orlando Cepeda accounted for the clincher with a bases-empty homer.

The Dodgers now need any combination of three victories and or San Francisco defeats in the final four games to clinch the National League flag. The Dodgers have one game left with the Colts, then wind up with a three-game series against St. Louis. San Francisco plays the Cards once more, then tackles Houston three times.

Elsewhere Wednesday night, Earl Francis and Bob Friend combined for a three-hitter as Pittsburgh edged third-place Cincinnati 1-0 in 11 innings. Milwaukee made New York the losingest team in modern major league history by beating the Mets 6-3 and Philadelphia whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-5 on Wes Covington's three-run homer.

In the American League, the champion New York Yankees defeated Washington 9-5, the Los Angeles Angels downed Detroit 8-5, Chicago's White Sox belted Boston 9-3 and Baltimore and

View of the Razorback Training Table

Kansas City split, the Orioles winning 3-0 before the A's took the nightcap 6-2. Cleveland and Minnesota were not scheduled.

The Colts pulled out front in the first inning on consecutive singles by Al Hilt, Jim Pendleton and Johnny Temple, but Johnny Podres (15-12) settled down and was touched for only five more hits before he was taken out for a rest after seven innings. Jack Smith and Larry Sherry finished up. The Dodgers chased George Brunett (2-4) with two runs in the second inning and a pair in the third. Then Frank Howard took over, hitting a three-run homer in the fourth inning—his 31st homer—and a two-run single in the fifth.

Maury Wills provided the expected during on the basepaths when he and Tommy Davis executed a double steal in the third inning. Wills sliding into third ahead of Hal Smith's throw for his 100th steal.

The Giants opened the scoring in the second as Willie Mays walked, Jim Davenport singled and Haller followed with a two-run double. They made it 3-0 in the fifth. Cepeda then accounted for the decisive run in the sixth as he tagged Curt Simmons (9-10) for home run No. 33.

From 1820 to 1830, the Indian migrations to new territory passed through Arkansas.

Liston Will Give Floyd 2nd Chance

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Sonny Liston's sudden annihilation of Floyd Patterson may have marked the end of boxing's multimillion dollar spectacles for maybe two years or more.

If Patterson, the dethroned heavyweight king, decides to go show in New York's Athletic Commission rejected the first one promised by Liston—the promoter is going to find it difficult to sell the public on $100 ringside seats and theater-television at prices ranging from $3.50 to $10.

That was the general feeling today of the fans and the boxing writers who saw an amazingly inept Patterson succumb in just 2 minutes, 6 seconds to Liston's punches on Tuesday night.

Sweden's Ingemar Johansson the former heavyweight champion who fought Patterson in three title fights, summed it up aptly when he said Liston handled Patterson "like a baby."

Championship Sports, Inc., if it promotes the return, will have problems finding a city to put the show in. New York's Athletic Commission rejected the first one promised by Liston—the promoter is going to find it difficult to sell the public on $100 ringside seats and theater-television at can end in any other way but boxing have petitioned in the past another swift Patterson defeat.

If the heavyweights ever draw big again, Cassius Clay could be the redeemer. If the 1960 Olympic light heavyweight king from Louisville can handle ancient Archie Moore at Los Angeles Oct. 23 half as well as he says he will, he may be on the road to a title fight by 1964.

Clay is unbeaten, big and strong, personable and articulate. Only 20, he figures to get bigger and stronger. He can punch hard and fast.

Liston was scheduled to leave for Philadelphia today and then take off on a vacation. He may get part of his estimated purse of $282,000 to help him enjoy the holiday.

Promoter Tom Bolan of Championship Sports, Inc., said Eugene Coyne Jr., district director of the Internal Revenue Service, indicated he would release some of the money of the live gate that was seized by the government Tuesday night.

Bolan said the government seized the approximately $5 million receipts of the live gate, closed circuit television, and radio to challenge the deferred payment plan under which some $2 million was to be paid off over a 17-year period.

The lawyer-promoter said the decision would be of keen interest to the entire sports world since Patterson can't see how the return athletes in other fields besides boxing have petitioned in the past

Broyles Has Caution for Porkers

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Coach Frank Broyles cautioned the Arkansas Razorbacks again Wednesday about looking past Tulsa to their Southwest Conference opener against Texas Christian.

"Don't underestimate Tulsa," Broyles told the Porker after they heard a scouting report on the Golden Hurricane. "They're much improved over last year."

Arkansas beat Tulsa 6-0 in the rain on the way to an 8-2 season, a share of the SWC title and a Sugar Bowl bid in 1961. Tulsa hasn't beaten the Hogs since 1959 for payments spread over a period of years to lessen the income tax bite.

Broyles' first year at the helm.

But, Broyles warned Monday, Tuesday and again Wednesday, the Golden Hurricane that blows into Razorback Stadium at 2 p.m. Saturday will be huge and armed with an excellent passing attack.

Tulsa threw 35 times in an opening 39-0 victory over Hardin Simmons.

The Razorbacks emphasized pass defense again Wednesday, but they took some time polishing offensive plays.

Hoover Evans of Fayetteville, Tommy Polk of Hope and Jerry Mazzanti of Lake Village were named co-captains for the Tulsa game.

Gene Beutelschies, a tackle on the Tush Hog unit, missed practice Wednesday. He had to take his wife to the hospital to have a baby.

Jefferson county was named for Thomas Jefferson, third president of the U.S.

Makeup Clinics at Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP)—Makeup clinics will be held Sunday for residents of Miller County, Ark., and Bowie County, Tex., who failed last week to receive their first dose of the Sabin oral polio vaccine.

Nearly 31,000 persons took the type I vaccine last Sunday, and the Miller-Bowie Medical Society, which is sponsoring the immunization program, said it hoped to exceed that number this week.

The vaccine is administered in lumps of sugar.

The Arkansas Medical Society postponed its statewide program, following reports that four of the four million Canadians who took type III vaccine contracted paralytic polio. The state society said it feared adverse publicity would keep some persons from participating in the project.

Rosy Apple Dumplings

If baked apples are a favorite at your house, here's an idea you should try that will make them even more popular. Called Rosy Apple Dumplings, they are apples wrapped in tender biscuit dough, topped with a cinnamon-candy sauce and then baked to tender goodness.

The biscuit dough is extra easy when you make it from enriched self-rising flour, the flour that contributes important nutrients in the eating and offers extra convenience in baking since the leavening and salt are already blended into the flour. This means no sifting-in step when you're making biscuits and all your favorite breads.

ROSY APPLE DUMPLINGS

1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons red cinnamon candies
1/2 cup milk
6 medium apples, cored and peeled
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon red cinnamon candies

Combine  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar, 3 tablespoons candies and water in saucepan. Heat, stirring frequently, until candies dissolve. Set aside while preparing dough. Measure flour into bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out to 12 x 18-inch rectangle. Cut with pastry wheel or sharp knife into six 6-inch squares. Place an apple in center of each square. Combine 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 tablespoon candies and place about 1 teaspoon of the mixture in center of each apple. Bring opposite corners of biscuit squares together around apples and seal edges securely. Place in greased 7 x 11-inch baking pan. Spoon prepared syrup over dumplings. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) about 35 minutes. Makes six servings.

Rumblings of a Plato on the Sidewalk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk rumblings of a Pavement Plato: Sometimes modern civilization seems like two fellows riding on a roller coaster and each screaming in the other's ear, "What we need to do is to relax!"

But neither wants to be the first to get off the roller coaster, although they don't seem to be riding to any place in particular.

The go-getter—the eternal hustler—is the 20th century American hero, and that may explain most of the things that are wrong with the 20th century.

There was a long period in our history when the dawdler, the slacker, the man who sat down and whittled while he thought one thing through, was our national folk hero.

He became part of the American legend, but now he seems either to be forgotten or a figure of amused contempt.

How long has it been since you actually saw a man sit down, take up a piece of wood and whittle on it? How long since you did this yourself? Can you even remember?

The motto today is: "Don't just stand there. Do something. Anything!"

If you can't do anything else, have a nervous breakdown. At least then you're getting something done.

Man still doesn't know how his glands operate, but he is involved in a vast and costly race to see who can get to the moon first. Before he even understands himself, he wants to be a go-getter on a cosmic scale.

It takes a lot of courage anymore to be a dawdler. He is regarded as either downright immoral or a roadblock in the path of progress. This is because we tend to confuse mere bustle with actual achievement.

Actually, it is the constructive dawdler who is the real main-spring of progress. He is no craven prisoner of an endless sense of hurry. He has time to puzzle and ponder how to make things better.

The invention of the steam engine, we are told, was speeded by James Watt's daydreaming while watching a kitchen teapot bubble. Such original ideas spring from a sense of wonder, and ideas are stubborn things that refuse to be rushed.

Your typical go-getter often is too impatient to pause and wait for the fruition of his ideas—if he has any at all. He is too busy running to keep appointments, waving his hands and making loud noises, or pushing buttons better left unpushed.

That's the real danger with the go-getter philosophy: it sometimes results in getting things done that were better left undone.

Wouldn't all of us in this nervous, restless life we live get more zest out of our years—and perhaps have more years to enjoy that zest—if we spent more time in placid, creative, restful dawdling?

The next time you meet an eager beaver go-getter, grab him firmly by both lapels and slow him down long enough to ask him, "Why so eager, beaver? Where are you going? Is what you're trying to get really worth getting?"

Tower to Speak at Jonesboro

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., will be the major speaker at a GOP rally in Jonesboro Oct. 12.

John Young, acting president of the Craighead County Republican Club, said details of the rally would be announced later.

Tower will make several appearances in Arkansas next month on behalf of Dr. Kenneth Jones of Little Rock, Republican candidate for the Senate, and other GOP candidates.

U.S. Can't Win in Cuban Situation

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States' predicament with Fidel Castro has always been double: how to do something about him and how to save face if it doesn't. It's an embarrassed contemplation.

Now, like a man determined to drive a neighbor to distraction with gradual torments, Premier Khrushchev has added one more jolt to the American embarrassment.

He let Castro announce Tuesday the Soviet Union and Cuba plan to build a port somewhere on Cuba's coastline as headquarters for a joint Russian-Cuban fishing fleet.

The immediate American reaction is: just a fishing fleet? It was bad enough when Moscow announced some weeks ago it was sending arms to Castro along with technicians to teach the Cubans how to use them. This brought heated demands in this country for a Cuban invasion.

President Kennedy thought they were overheated. He said the weapons so far were just the defensive kind. Congress, after appropriate reflection, has been content to settle for a resolution.

It will say something to the effect that the United States will use force if necessary to stop any expansion of communism from Cuba to the rest of the Western Hemisphere.

Thus no American action—at least over—appeared to be in the works at this time.

But the thought of a Russian fishing fleet patrolling the American coast—with all that the presence of such a fleet could imply—will probably cause new outbursts of American exasperation.

It is easy to imagine the form it will take: That the new port may in reality become not a fishing base but a Russian naval base.

That the Russian vessels will range all the way from electronic Peeping Toms, looking in the American window, to naval caravans landing Communist guerrillas on the shore of Latin-American republics.

All this in time may be true, and the very nearness of the Russian ships is ominous, but the United States will still probably feel compelled to show restraint for a variety of reasons.

Any direct assault by the American giant on Cuba with a population of only seven million would give Khrushchev the finest propaganda harvest he's gathered since the cold war started.

There has been no outburst of enthusiasm in Latin-American countries, which this country is so anxious to protect from communism, for direct action to throttle Castro.

And, since this country is anxious to be considered a good neighbor and a good influence to its Latin neighbors, it can ill afford to be considered a bafeul one, which it might if it resorted to invasion.

In addition there is the little matter of the Russian threat of war if the United States hits Cuba. This may be strictly bluff. Naturally, the United States must be hesitant to assume so, since the results could be ghastly.

Yet, having said all this, the American predicament is painful. The United States has been asserting leadership of the Americas. Its hope of success in Latin America is based on the hope its leadership will be accepted and respected, two conditions practically synonymous.

But here's tiny Cuba, just 90 miles off the American coast, defying gigantic Uncle Sam, peeking out from under the wing of Khrushchev to call names.

The longer this goes on, the more the loss of face for the United States. There's a limit to how much more it can lose without jeopardizing Latin-American respect, which could be as disas-

Ecsapee and Helper Are Sentenced

BENTON, Ark. (AP) — Grady Earl Sanders, 22, of Benton, and Thomas McGill, 18, of North Little Rock, the youth who helped Sanders escape last Friday from the Saline County jail, were sentenced Tuesday at Benton to five-year prison terms.

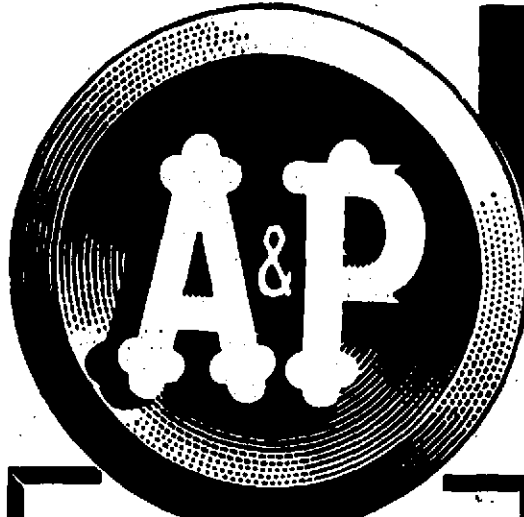

Circuit Judge Henry B. Means sentenced the pair on charges of robbery, grand larceny and breaking jail. Their terms were to begin immediately.

Sanders was being held in the county jail along with two other youths on charges of burglarizing two Benton drive-ins last week. McGill, posing as a visitor, slugged radio operator Walter Comstock with a soft drink bottle, seized his keys and pistol and unlocked the cell. The pair then took Comstock's automobile and fled to a wooded section in west Saline County.

They were captured by local and State Police with the aid of bloodhounds. Two others involved in the drive-in robberies, Roy Lucas and William Dodson, both of Little Rock, were sentenced to three-year terms. Neither participated in the jail break, although Sanders and McGill left the door of their cell unlocked.

Boiling springs, on Rush Creek in Marion county, is a small gem in wet weather. In ordinary weather, it just boils and, in boiling, polishes every little pebble that drops into it with the same kind of a polish a jeweler puts on a cameo setting.

Stone Issues Challenge to Newspapers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — American newspapers, long the dominant force in day-to-day enlightenment of the reading public, were issued a stern challenge today by one of their leading spokesmen to scale even greater heights of meaningful reporting.

The call came from Ed Stone of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and retiring president of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association, which opened its annual five-day convention here.

"I feel strongly," Stone said, "that the great challenge to our existence as a vital and essential part of American life lies still before us; that only by daring and imagination and a constant questioning of time-honored concepts and practices, can we ever hope to approach the shining goal of maximum service to our readers, our community and our nation."

Stone spoke to some 200 delegates at the APME session. He also used his president's report to voice an answer to critics of today's newspapers.

"(If) informed and even malicious criticisms of America's newspapers by an influential minority persist in setting up a straw man of sensationalism and irresponsibility with little or no relationship to 1962 reality," he said.

"Our jaundiced detractors of this persuasion are fond of citing 5 or 10 'best newspapers' as living up to their criteria and dismissing the rest of America's vast press as of no account, thus dumping into their critical ashcan the hundreds of good newspapers across the land which are serving their respective communities conscientiously and well," he added.

"The Seattle executive urged his fellow editors to greater effort in backgrounding news to make it more vital to the reader."

"How much do we really know of the immense circle of peoples," he asked, "now emerging into the sunlight of the 20th century in Africa and Asia, whose fate is inextricably bound up with ours and with that of our children's children in the onward march of history?"

"We are living in exciting times—in a broad sweep of history that is changing the world daily before our very eyes," Stone said, "and it is up to us to communicate the excitement of these times to our readers."

Stone cited The Associated Press' "World Spotlight Series" as a significant breakthrough in illuminating the news, calling it "the weekly background report from the hot news fronts of this troubled globe."

Keynoting the APME sessions was J. Q. Mahaffey, veteran editor of the Texarkana Gazette. "I have always felt that the AP was not just a news service," Mahaffey said, "not even a mutually owned news service, but a great fraternity of the best newspapermen in the world, all of whom care a hell of a lot about one another."

Today's sessions included presentation of member citations for outstanding performances in news

Sweet, Slimming Party Dessert

Shimmery, golden "Orange Blossom Dessert Jelly" was made for a party. It's big, handsome and eye-catching... it tastes marvelous... it's wonderfully easy to make... and it's low, low in calories!

This party-sized dessert combines orange juice with apricot nectar in a gelatin base. Just a hint of almond extract gives it an elusive "what-is-it" flavor. The dessert's delightful sweetness and its low-calorie success are due to the use of the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, used here in place of sugar. Happy result is that nearly half the total calories normally assigned to the dessert are eliminated.

Guests will appreciate your helping them "count calories," so do let them in on your calorie-subtracting cookery secret.

Orange Blossom Dessert Jelly (Low-Calorie)

- 4 1/2 cups orange juice
- 3 envelopes (or tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
- 1 1-pint can Sucaryl-sweetened apricot nectar
- 4 1/2 teaspoons Sucaryl solution
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- 2 egg whites

Heat 1 cup of the orange juice to boiling. Soften gelatin in apricot nectar; add hot orange juice, stirring to dissolve gelatin. Add remaining orange juice, Sucaryl and almond extract. Whip egg whites until soft peaks form when beater is raised; fold into gelatin mixture. Pour into a slightly oiled 8-cup mold; chill until set. Garnish with fruits as desired.

Makes 12 servings. Each serving contains 60 CALORIES; 4 grams protein; 0.5 gram fat; 12.5 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 109 CALORIES.

Now Is Good Time to Try Out Turkey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now's a good time to talk turkey at supermarket meat counters.

Stores are seeking to clear out the 100.6 million pounds of birds now in storage to make way for the 1.3 billion pounds coming from the new fall crop.

Several national chains are featuring turkeys this weekend at prices ranging upward from 29 cents a pound.

Other poultry features this weekend include large baking hens — especially in the Southwest, whole broiler-fryers and fryer parts.

Red meat attractions include selections for beef, pork and lamb.

In the Northeast, beef attractions include round roasts, chuck roasts and steaks and ribs.

Baby beef steaks and roasts are featured in the Southeast, while beef pot roasts and rib roasts are the stars of Midwestern markets.

Pork attractions regionally include loin roasts, chops, bacon, sausage, shoulder steaks and Boston Butt roasts.

Other features include leg of lamb chops.

Fruit selections include apples, and tomatoes.

Pakistan Chief Ends U. S. Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pakistan President Ayub Khan completed a two-day visit with President Kennedy and other U.S. officials and declared the United States as leader of the free world is "more than equal to any task" ahead of it.

He flew to New York where he will address the U.N. General Assembly.

Pakistan sources said Ayub was satisfied with his talks and felt they had resulted in better understanding of both the Pakistan and American positions even though full agreement had not been reached on every subject.

Ayub received a strong reaffirmation from President Kennedy of the importance of the U.S.-Pakistan military alliance.

He also received assurances by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that there will be a speedup in lagging deliveries of military assistance supplies.

coverage. Making the awards was Ted Durein, of the Monterey, Calif., Peninsula Herald, and chairman of the member citations committee.

The APME board of directors voted to hold the 1966 convention in San Diego. Meeting dates are set four years in advance. Miami will be the host city in 1968.

Phoenix will entertain the convention in 1964, and Pittsburgh will be the host in 1965.

Paratroopers Sang While Waiting

By JOHN FARROW

CORK, Ireland (AP)—Survivors of a ditched American airliner, many of them tough paratroopers, sang "Glory, Glory Hallelujah," and recited the Lord's Prayer together as 10-foot waves tossed their raft around like a toy for five hours before their rescue.

This and other graphic accounts of the nightmare Atlantic ordeal were given Wednesday by injured survivors lifted by helicopter to a hospital here from the Swiss freighter Celerina. They came ashore thanking God, their pilot and their navigator for the rescue. Sobbing as he thought of his wife who lost her life in the crash landing Sunday, Robert Eldred, 47, retired Army captain from East Dennis, Mass., quoted plane Capt. John D. Murray of Oyster Bay, N.Y., as saying: "God had His hand on the controls to help make such a magnificent landing in rough weather."

Eldred, with 16 others, was lifted ashore to the Sisters of Mercy Hospital here from the Celerina, which had picked up 44 survivors from the wreck. The rest are proceeding aboard the jammed cargo ship to Antwerp, Belgium, where she is due late Thursday.

Account of Girl's Flight From Curtain

By DALE NOUSE

Detroit Free Press Assistant City Editor The Detroit Free Press

DETROIT (AP)—The slender blonde glanced up and down the Rue de Faubourg in Paris, then quickly slipped an envelope into the ornate French mailbox.

Praying she had gone undetected, Emese Szklencay, a 20-year-old dancer from Budapest, vanished into the crowd and rejoined a Hungarian national folk dance troupe.

That letter, postmarked the evening of Sept. 10, arrived shortly before noon two days later at a white frame house at 1002 Granger in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Marguerite Dinka, 29, a pretty housewife and Emese's older sister, trembled as she ripped open the envelope. News from relatives behind the Iron Curtain is scarce and seldom good.

To those without relatives under Communist rule, the letter might have seemed merely chatty. But it was much more.

It said Emese—pronounced Emma-sha—was then in Paris, but the troupe was going that day to northern France.

Then it added, in part: "We shall be back in Paris again on the 19th, 20th and 21st of this month (September). I don't know how you could arrange a meeting with me one of these days. I would like it very much if you could arrange it financially. Please excuse this hurried style, but I have only a short time. Once more, I would like it very much if this meeting could be arranged. My love to all of you, Emese."

That evening, Mrs. Dinka and her husband, Stephen, 38, sat in their dining room. He is now a research assistant studying for a doctor's degree in epidemiology. Agitated and tense, they talked, both remembering the dangers of setting themselves personally against the Russians. They had done it before.

Tall, balding Dinka, son of a once prosperous Budapest master butcher, quit college when World War II broke out, enlisted and spent 13 straight months on the Russian front with a horse-mounted artillery troop. When Hungary folded, he spent 38 months in Russian prison camps.

His wife, Marguerite, remembered the war, too. Then 12 years old, she kept 2-year-old Emese safe in a crude bomb shelter until the Russians finally battered Budapest to its knees.

Both remembered their own bloody dash through the Iron Curtain.

After the October 1956 uprising failed, they sneaked out of Budapest on a train with their three children.

When Russian troops halted the train, they fled across ice-crusted fields into Austria, with Russian flares seeking them and machine guns stuttering.

The following morning—Thursday, Sept. 13—Dinka drove to Detroit's federal building, where he and his wife received their United States citizenship papers last May.

Jack C. Stewart of the Immigration and Naturalization Service was sympathetic but pointed out the almost impossible nature of what Dinka proposed to do in a few short days.

That was how, a little later, Dinka came to the Free Press city room and asked, in heavily accented English: "Please, may I talk with Mr. Frank Angelo?"

Managing editor Angelo was out of town, but Dinka told me he had to talk privately with someone.

He took a chair, and groped for the exact words.

"I would like to ask you to help me get a girl out of Communist Hungary. She is desperate to—as you say—defect."

He presented the original letter and a translation made by his wife.

He said Stewart had sent him to the Free Press.

Then he laid out his desperate plan to go to Paris and snatch the girl from her Communist guards.

City editor Derick Daniels and assistant executive editor Al Neuharth recognized the odds involved, but they were impressed with Dinka's determination. They agreed that the Free Press would finance the venture and provide all possible help here and abroad.

Washington bureau approached a half-dozen federal officials. Because they can admit to no foreknowledge of such plans, Haswell gave them a casual, hypothetical case.

Within two hours, he relayed to the Free Press a long, thorough outline on how to get a passport in a hurry, what to do if Dinka got the girl and a complicated procedure to be followed in Paris.

By late Friday, Dinka had his passport and smallpox vaccination.

Joe Smith, of Pan American's Detroit office, quickly cleared all the travel plans. Dinka was to leave for Paris at 5 p.m. Sunday.

The mounting excitement that spilled over into Saturday, Sept. 15, was chilled by a somber observation.

Mrs. Dinka pointed out that in her letter, her sister had promised to write again the following day to supply the Dinkas with her address in Paris.

Although ample time had elapsed, no letter had arrived.

Had the troupe's plans been changed? Even worse, had Emese been discovered? All-important feelers began going out that morning. Pan American checked.

As the day wore on, our nerves wore away. There was no clue.

Dinka and I parted that evening, tired and discouraged.

It had been decided that Dinka would make the final decision on whether he would go on what might be a wild goose chase.

At 6:30 a.m. Sunday we talked by telephone. He had decided to go.

"I feel strong," he said. "I'm sure I can find her. God will be with me."

As the big airliner banked sharply and disappeared to the east, Mrs. Dinka said: "We have been through much together. He will not fail."

Ashdown Bond Issue

ASHDOWN, Ark. (AP)—Little River County will vote next Tuesday on a proposed $170,000 tax bond issue to finance a plant for a garment industry. Name of the industry, which would employ 150 persons, mostly women, has not been disclosed. The bonds would be retired by a 1 1/4 mill tax.

crash.

Nicholson, in his turn, praised the passengers.

"They were all game. Most of them were paratroopers and were well-disciplined," he said.

Aid units of the U.S. Army were speeding to Antwerp to give any help they can when the Celerina reaches port.

Pvt. Willie Smith Jr., 18, Atlanta, Ga., interviewed in the hospital, said he tried to launch a raft when the plane smashed into the water Sunday night but could not. He hit the water and "many of us linked arms to stay afloat. There were seven of us clutching arms in my little group and four of them could not swim."

Capt. Eldred, describing the engine trouble cause of which is unexplained, said: "We were sitting about three-quarters of the way back in the plane. One engine caught fire and it was put out, but we had to feather it. Almost immediately another engine went out of commission."

"The pilot told us the circumstances. Throughout all my Army career, I have never seen such discipline. The crew was absolutely magnificent. We all put on our Mae West jackets."

"Navigator Samuel Nicholson did a magnificent job in giving the fix after the third engine went and we had to ditch. The navigator became a hero."

"Then there was just one crashing smash. Everybody was catapulted forward 15 or 20 feet. Water poured into the plane. It was pitch dark."

"I never saw my wife again," he added, breaking down in tears. Quickly recovering himself Eldred went on:

"I thought I was going to die. I was certain I was. Even now I can't believe I'm alive. I saw a raft. It was low in the water and waves spilled over it."

"The navigator took command as the captain was only half-conscious after being hit on the head. 'Everybody bailed like crazy. One man even bailed with his wallet.'

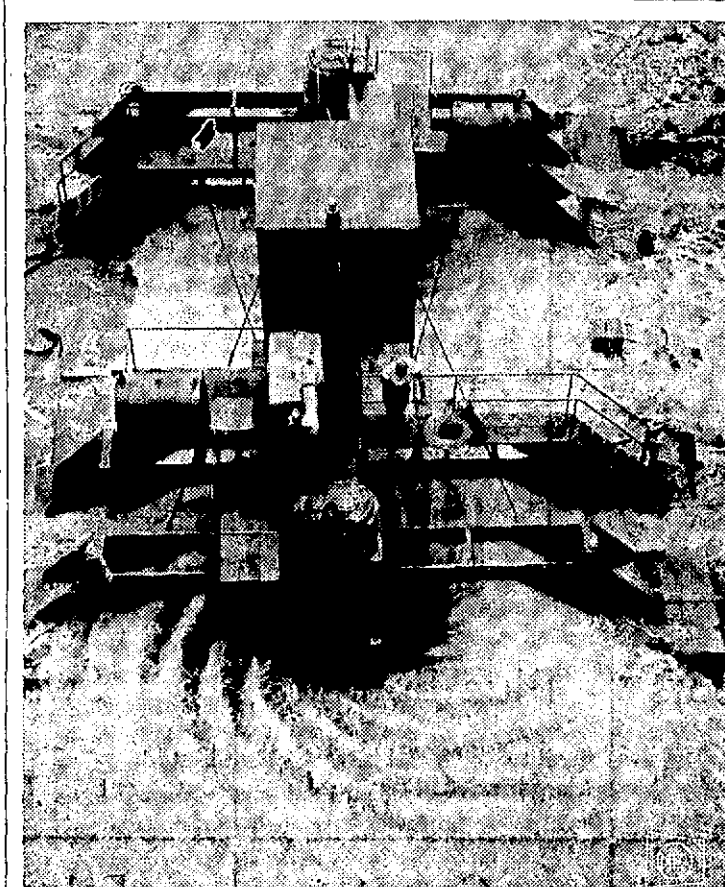

"Suddenly we saw the lights of the Celerina and these lights were the most welcome we have ever seen or are ever likely to see. We had been in the water for about five hours."

"The crew of the ship were great."

Nicholson and Eldred both stressed that there were 41 persons clinging to the almost sinking raft which was built to hold only 25.

They prayed in unison and some found the strength to sing "Glory, Glory Hallelujah."

Eldred turned and embraced Pvt. Smith, the youth from Atlanta, and said he was one of the "green troops," in the Army only six months, who "made me, an old soldier for 20 years, feel proud."

Tax Credits to Play a Major Role

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Taxes play an ever bigger role in business decisions. Corporate finance officers and lawyers will have their homework laid out for them as business plans and practices are adjusted to the new tax bill.

Invest in capital goods and take advantage of the new tax credits? Or forego the credit but make this year's earnings statement look better to stockholders?

Expense account items — are they clearly connected with business as the new law specifies — corporate business, that is, not family business? And how clear does clearly have to be?

Overseas branches — tax havens, or growth concerns with profits followed back for prudent expansion?

After many months, Congress has worked out a tax bill of its own. It falls far short of what the administration asked — a shortfall that many businessmen applaud — particularly the scuttling of the proposal to withhold dividend and interest income. In fact, the revised bill is notable more for what is left out than what it put in.

And the bill now in its final stages in Congress is far short of what the administration says it will ask of the next Congress.

But like all tax bills, the change it proposes will be subject to interpretation in individual applications. Corporate finance officers and lawyers will go to work seeing how their company fits into the new scheme.

Take investment credit. Income tax payments could be cut up to 10 per cent of the cost of much newly bought equipment. But buildings aren't included. And there are complicated rules on the carryover of unused credits in future years, or even to refiling past years.

The provision is said to offer a tax incentive of up to a billion dollars which the administration hopes business will take — using such a saving to buy new equipment and thus boost the capital goods industries.

But each company will decide for itself if it wants to do this. The problem is both whether it thinks its prospects justify such investment and whether the cut in reported net earnings — inherent in this and the previously announced new rules on depreciation — would look too bad to the stockholders.

Expense account changes may new rules call for some business discussions either before or after going to a prize fight — but not too long after or before. And in a trip for both business and pleasure, the cost of the pleasure shouldn't be more than one-fourth of the total, if you want to call it all deductible.

Many businessmen are aware of the new problems that the tax bill will raise, but most of them

Deputy Youngblood thought to himself that he would take the irons off, if it were his decision. Ivey had hardly had an easy minute since the heavy rivets were set. The deputy pushed the dinner tray under the cell door.

As the deputy was turning away, Ivey's chain clanked and his bare foot struck the tray, sending it clattering out into the corridor. The tin cup, which had been full of coffee, rolled away. Maggie's beans were strewn across the floor.

When the sheriff heard about the incident, he said that Ivey was not to have any food until supper. The deputy went back upstairs with broom, dustpan, mop and mop bucket. Ivey was still standing in the same place.

"I guess you'll be yelling that we're starving you," Youngblood said. "The sheriff says this is all the grub you get till supper."

"What do I care about grub? I got to get these irons off; I can't stand them. It ain't human."

"You mean you don't like to stand them?" Youngblood said as he started to go back downstairs. "If you didn't kick around so much, you wouldn't hurt your ankles."

"Wait, Youngblood. I want you to get the sheriff up here. I'm ready to make a deal. I'll confess."

The deputy went down and told the sheriff. "You reckon he means it?" the sheriff asked, interested.

"He means something. He says he can't stand those irons, and you can tell he means it."

"Go get the judge. We'll find out."

Youngblood found Judge Pendegrass in his office and brought him back and the three of them went upstairs to confront Ivey. The prisoner was sitting on his bunk with his elbows on his knees.

"You take these irons off, and I'll confess."

The sheriff folded his heavy arms and paused a moment, then said, "Ivey, I've got no reason to make a deal with you. You're the one that wanted to make a deal. And I'm not going to take the irons off first."

"Will you give me your word to take them off if I confess?"

The judge interrupted, "Sheriff, I think maybe what you want to do is specify that he must tell you a certain man's name."

The sheriff turned back to the prisoner. "You heard it, Ivey. You've got my word on the leg irons, if you'll tell us the man that paid you and give us some dope to help convict him."

"I can't do that. It might cost

4th Time to Wed Called 'Real Thing'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "We seemed to know almost from the start that it was the real thing," said Janet Leigh of her recent, sudden marriage to stock broker Bob Brandt.

The actress was speaking at the Beverly Hills manse she once shared with Tony Curtis. It is across the street from Pickfair, where the romance of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks once flourished.

"I'm moving," Janet reported, sitting beside the pool in a nicely cut bathing suit, her hair in curlers. "I've had it with the big house."

"Bob has a smaller house on an acre and a half up Benedict Canyon. He lived in the pool house of what was originally a big estate, and it's charming and comfortable. It's a little small for his readymade family (she has two children by Curtis) so we are building on three bedrooms and two baths."

The swiftness of their marriage — her fourth, his third — took Hollywood by surprise, but Janet admitted she had been thinking about it for three months. She has known her husband four months.

Janet began thinking maritally, but there was a complication: she was still legally wed to Tony. She found out what legal steps were necessary and called him in Europe — "he was very nice about it."

Then a Mexican divorce and me my life. But I'll tell you some things you don't know."

"Cost you your life? You haven't got much over a week left."

"I'll tell you some things you don't know," Ivey insisted.

The sheriff looked at the judge and the judge shrugged. Finally the sheriff said, "all right, feller, if you deal I won't make any won't either. If you want to talk, go ahead. If you tell us enough that we really want to know, the irons come off. That's as far as I'll go."

Ivey moistened his lips with his tongue and talked. "I killed the shepherd's kid. But it was a mistake; I thought it was his father, Munson. The kid had on a big jumper and a hat like his old man wore." Ivey spoke without any emotion.

"Go on," the sheriff said.

"That's all there was to it. I was laying up on the rock when he came out of the creek bottom. I let him have it, and he raised up and went dragging off, so I let him have it again. I never knewed it was the kid till I turned him over."

"How much were you paid to kill Munson?"

"I wasn't paid at all. I was going to do it on my own."

"Why?"

"I rode by his place and he cursed me good. I don't have to take that off of a shepherd."

"Well, Ivey, I don't see where you think you've told us much. You been found guilty of killing the kid whether you ever confessed it or not. You ought to of confessed it just to ease your conscience."

The judge broke the ensuing silence with a question. "Who is this fellow Torres?"

"He used to be a buddy of mine," Ivey said. "Name's Juan. Juan Torres."

The sheriff took up the questioning again. "Is he working with the ranchers?"

"No. Juan don't take to strangers much, and he don't know anybody around here."

"Is he hanging around here to help you some way?"

"I don't know. He would help me if he could. He used to be a good buddy of mine."

The sheriff stood in silence for a minute, then nodded and said, "We'll take them off. We ought to be able to hold a man inside a jail without irons on his legs."

Sentenced to 6 Years in Prison

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Mitchell Odom, 23, of North Little Rock, was sentenced Tuesday to a total of six years in prison after pleading guilty in Faulkner Circuit Court at Conway to charges of burglary and grand larceny.

Judge Audrey Strait of Morrilton sentenced him to three years on each count, with the terms to run concurrently.

Odom admitted burglarizing a Conway sporting goods store Sept. 18.

Tommy Banks, 19, also of North Little Rock, was returned to prison shortly after the burglary. He was under suspended sentence on similar charges in another county.

SURVIVAL TRICK—An aquatic trick that could save your life is demonstrated by John G. Coe of Westfield, N.J. He leaps into pool, left, with trousers knotted at the cuffs held over his head. Trousers capture enough air to act as water wings and keep the swimmer afloat. Coe and other Peace Corpsmen, right, were taking Red Cross survival training near Washington, D.C., before leaving for Ethiopia duty.

Lumber Is Big Business in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The big lumber companies which operate in Arkansas yield benefits to the general public over and above the jobs they provide and the taxes they pay.

By applying sound conservation methods to the business of growing timber, these companies also operate huge game farms which are open to the general public.

These are heavily used by deer and squirrel hunters and to a lesser degree by turkey hunters.

The business of timber operations naturally include most of the state's best forest land, which also is the best place to hunt.

With the exception of a few areas leased to private hunting clubs, this land is open to the general public. The lumber companies ask only that hunters try to curb the danger of fires, which is greatest during the hunting season.

The woods are driest then, and since hunters smoke and build fires, there is always a threat of uncontrolled fire.

"We would be in serious trouble if the lumber companies didn't open their lands for hunting," said Gus Albright, news editor for the State Game and Fish Commission.

"The companies have always worked with the commission," he said. "But I think they have become more conscious of the public relations value of the situation in the last few years, as the demand for hunting space has grown."

"Some companies have gone so far as to hire game biologists to manage game on their properties. In Arkansas, they have turned over areas to us for game management."

The lumber companies apparently feel that the game crop should be harvested, just as the trees are harvested. They have passed the word that private clubs which hold certain areas under lease should kill surplus deer, Albright said. This applies to spots, particularly islands, where deer have become so numerous they endanger the tree crop.

"If the clubs don't harvest the game, the companies said they would do it themselves," Albright said.

Remarks a Newsmen Tires of

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks a newspaperman gets tired of hearing:

"Oh, you can't print that!"

"Off the record, I don't mind telling you that—"

"He must be a newspaperman. Nobody else would wear a hat like that."

"Why is it newspapers always seem to be full of nothing but bad news? Is the world really that awful?"

"You fellows must get a lot of information you can't publish. Tell me the truth now. What is Khrushchev really up to?"

"I suppose you expect to get into heaven on a press pass, too."

"Could you write a story about me? I just bit a dog."

"I just phoned to give you an item about my daughter's wedding. You'll be sure and put it on the front page, won't you? That'll really impress our neighbors."

"Hi, Scoop! What's new?"

"And furthermore, I'm just not any ordinary indignant reader. My husband is a cousin of the mayor."

"I thought all newspapermen went around with a big pencil stuck behind their ear."

"My son just flunked out of college again, and now he says he's interested in taking up journalism. How long will it take him to become a foreign correspondent?"

"Hey Pete, Mr. Czynskiweics is on the phone. He says we spelled his name wrong again. He wants to know if he changed it to Smith would it help you to get it right."

"Naturally, what I'm telling you is in strict confidence."

"Oh, no, I don't want to be quoted."

"Here's a cigar, son. Let's just forget the whole thing, shall we?"

"You printed the text of the President's last speech. Why can't you run the full text of my sermon?"

"Gee, being a reporter sounds awfully exciting. You get to meet such interesting people."

"You don't mean they pay you to write things like that? Why, I only went two years to high school, but I'll bet you I could—"

"I used to be in the newspaper game myself—and then I got smart."

"Shall I let him in, Boss? He claims he's a reporter."

"Pete, there's a fellow out at the reception desk who says he's invented a perpetual motion machine that really works. Better go out and listen to him. He may be a subscriber."

"Hello, hello. This is Mr. Czynskiweics. I want to give you an item about my wife being elected president of our garden club. Yes, it's 'c' like in centipede, 'y' like in yesterday, 'z' like in—"

Things Have Changed in Ranch Life

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Obviously, it's only the small, relatively unimportant details of ranch life—important details of ranch life—on television's idea of it—that have changed in the past 70 years.

The strong, brave, handsome, loyal, modern foreman of the Garret spread—500,000 acres of cattle, lumber, wheat and mines—gets around by helicopter, summons a vet when the steers fall sick and uses a solid gold cigarette lighter to fire up his tailor-made. But his fists fly in traditional style even if he isn't a fast gun—or any gun at all for that matter.

The opening program of "Frontier" on NBC Tuesday night was a typical and, alas, tired tale of the West. It was the plot about the man unjustly accused of murder and even included the embryonic lynching party. But it turned out well, as it always does, after our foreman—played in staid, smart fashion by Richard Egan—solved things with a little lecture to the mob instead of a shoot-out. That's new.

The rest of the regular cast—the Gorrels, matriarch, daughter and young son—didn't have much to do. But they will later.

It was kind of fun.

Former President Herbert Hoover, who has already written a book on the subject, summarized "The Ordeal of Woodrow Wilson" in an NBC special Tuesday night. It was less a personal memoir of his World War I chief than a resume of President Wilson's valiant fight for the League of Nations. But it was a program of very special interest merely because of Mr. Hoover's expressions of affection and vast respect for the mind and ideals of his predecessor.

Pay TV Case Before Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A case involving a pay television application will be submitted to the Arkansas Supreme Court Monday without oral argument.

Clerk Phillip McGowan said Tuesday both sides once asked for oral arguments but withdrew the requests.

The case concerns a Public Service Commission order directing Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., to provide lines for a pay television experiment in Little Rock by Midwest Video, Inc.

The Independent Theater Owners of Arkansas and several theater groups opposed the order. Pulaski Circuit Judge Guy Amsler affirmed the PSC decision and the theater owners appealed.
